FileHold Premium Document Management Solution Upgrades Search Engine to dtSearch

FileHold Systems Inc. is the designer, and developer of FileHold document management software. The software saves companies time and money in electronic document management and helps ensure regulatory compliance. The software allows companies to implement a complete document archiving, organization and document recovery solution.

"We selected dtSearch after conducting an extensive evaluation of full text search engines to replace a search engine we had previously used."

FileHold software is used in all industries, including finance, legal, medical, construction and engineering, and by government agencies of all sizes. The software supports all popular document types. It also offers a powerful workflow component, and extensive security features.

The company slogan "Document and Record Lifecycle Software" reflects the software's ability to manage documents from creation to disposal. Users can easily access the system using a standard web browser (both Internet Explorer and Mozilla Firefox are supported). It comes complete with all of the essentials customers need to manage document and record lifecycles.

"We found dtSearch to be a very easy company to work … their technical department was very responsive … The integration of the dtSearch Engine into FileHold has given us the search performance we were seeking."

For fast searching within the latest version of FileHold, the company chose the dtSearch Text Retrieval Engine. "We selected dtSearch after conducting an extensive evaluation of full text search engines to replace a search engine we had previously used," said Larry Oliver, President, FileHold Systems.

"We found dtSearch to be a very easy company to work with," continued Mr. Oliver. "dtSearch provided us with all of the evaluation tools we needed, and their technical department was very responsive to any requests we made. The integration of the dtSearch Engine into FileHold has given us the search performance we were seeking."
